Sen. Allen sponsors Traverse City native in Senate Page Program

LANSING – State Sen. Jason Allen, R-Traverse City, has sponsored Traverse City native Carrie Lewis in the Senate Page Program.

“It’s wonderful to have such a bright young woman, not to mention Traverse City native, working in the Senate,” Allen said.

A Traverse City Central High School graduate, she is the daughter of Richard and Colleen Lewis. Carrie, a sophomore at Michigan State University, is studying dietetics.

Pages deliver correspondence and legislative material to senators. Other duties include carrying bills and amendments to senators’ desks during Senate session.

“Working as a Senate page is a wonderful opportunity to get a firsthand look at how our state government works,” Allen said. “I’m glad to sponsor a dedicated and hard-working student such as Carrie.”
